HIP-HOP and HIGHER EDUCATION

From Kanye West to Cornel West, from Queens Bridge to Cambridge Hop-Hop has left its mark in education. This past decade has witnessed Hip-Hop gain some serious attention not only in mainstream society but also in higher education institutions across the country. We aren't just talking homecoming concerts and diversity shows, but also in the classroom. Through extensive scholarly research we've noticed that Hip-Hop influenced trends students choose to follow and ultimately become constitutive elements of their identities. Therefore, in order for educators to foster true growth and knowledge in students our presentation, "Hip-Hop and Higher Education," was designed to create a dialogue based on advancing the Hip-Hop culture within higher educational institutions.

THE CONSERVATORY COMPANY

Actors
The 14 emerging actors accepted from across the country into our conservatory are offered an unparalleled opportunity to bridge the gap between their training and their professional careers. Working side by side with seasoned professionals on stage, the conservatory actors also benefit from individual tutorials and master classes with a faculty gathered from the finest training programs in the nation.

Remarkably, IT’S FREE. All conservatory members receive full fellowships covering tuition, room and board. Rare in theater programs, CTC invites you to join a company of the best of your contemporaries and future colleagues, and pays for you to do it. All you have to do is get there.
Conservatory Auditions
We would love to consider your online audition for our 2018 Conservatory!
