2018 Central Appalachian Regional Brownfields Summit “Dilly! Dilly! Due Diligence”

NJIT TAB and the Virginia Department of Environmental Quality conducted a “Dilly! Dilly! Due Diligence” workshop at the 2018 Central Appalachian Regional Brownfields Summit on Tuesday April 10, 2018 at the Jackson Park Inn in Pulaski, Virginia.

NJIT TAB partnered with Virginia DEQ to present the session which included: a brief history of CERCLA and AAI, CERCLA liability and liability protections, continuing obligations, the definition of and examples of Recognized Environmental Conditions (RECs), and the importance of conducting due diligence prior to acquiring a property. This session was attended by approximately 50 attendees spanning from local governments, consultants, regulators, and community members.

NJIT TAB presented, answered questions, and coordinated with speakers for the workshop.
