DVRPC Brownfield Basics Workshop

At the request of the Delaware Valley Regional Planning Commission (DVRPC), NJIT TAB served as an expert panelist alongside, PADEP, PADCED, and EPA Region 3 on navigating the brownfield redevelopment process and provided useful tips and tricks that communities use to navigate the repurposing of brownfield sites. The event was held on September 20, 2019 in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania at the DVRPC's office.

NJIT TAB delivered a presentation that explained TAB's services and resources available to communities in need of technical assistance with their brownfield properties. In addition, NJIT TAB also presented an overview of the brownfield redevelopment process and how TAB assistance can be used along the way.

The goal of the event was to serve as a way to disseminate valuable information about brownfield liability and technical assistance to communities that struggle with brownfield issues. In addition, the event also served as an opportunity for both governmental entities and non-profits to become more aware of the state and federal brownfield funding resources available to them. Other topics discussed at the event included:

- PADCED Funding Sources
- Opportunity Zones
- PADEP Act 2 Program
- Industrial Site Reuse Program
- Brownfield Success Stories

Approximately, 50 people were in attendance. The audience consisted of municipal officials, state representatives, and non profits.
